English Curriculum

*Excellentia per fidem,
per scientiam, per adiuvatum*

Excellence through faith, learning and support

Curriculum Intent

The English curriculum aims to promote confidence, imagination and curiosity through the exploration and creation of a diverse range of literary texts. Our intent is that students develop originality, independence and critical evaluation skills in their writing by being encouraged to engage with a range of classic and contemporary fiction and non-fiction. Students develop a love of learning through reading by exploring a wealth of writing types, genres and authors.

St Wilfrid's English curriculum supports the whole school and BCCET vision of creating resilient and fluent readers. We adopt a rigorous approach to supporting students with their reading, writing and communication. Our curriculum includes: explicit teaching of ambitious and challenging vocabulary in order to equip students with the tools to excel in their lessons; opportunities to engage with challenging texts including texts that are from other cultures, time periods and authors from diverse backgrounds and a range of topics and text choices which aim to enrich our students' cultural capital. Our curriculum is challenging for all; our students study whole texts from a range of time periods and genres; plays, prose and poetry and we study two Shakespeare plays.

Key Stage Three

Our KS3 curriculum builds on the skills developed at KS2. We continue to develop our students' abilities by: introducing the skill of comparison, identifying viewpoints and perspectives; considering key concepts such as authorial intent, social moral and historical contexts and engaging with a range of genres. We develop students' writing stamina by: introducing them to analytical essay writing; transactional writing and by continuing to build on the foundations of fiction and non-fiction writing that have been introduced at KS2.

Key Stage Four

At KS4, our students begin to study for their GCSE Examinations where they study the texts prescribed by the AQA Literature and Language specification. Students critically examine The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde by Stevenson, Much Ado About Nothing by Shakespeare, An Inspector Calls by Priestley, a selection of unseen poems plus the Power and Conflict Poetry Anthology set by AQA. For their English Language GCSE, students study a wide range of extracts to support them with their studies of creative reading and writing and support them with their studies of writers' viewpoints and perspectives.

Key Stage Five

At KS5, students can choose to take A-Level English Language and/or A-Level English Literature, both of which are courses that are regarded highly by universities and employers alike. Studying English Language allows students to engage with spoken language, particularly how a child develops language, as well as challenging the language used within the media, politics, law, medicine and beyond. The course engages with theory and research, as well as a vast range of texts, allowing students to become critical users of language and develop journalistic skills.

In English Literature, students engage with challenging texts including poetry, plays and prose, examining themes such as inequality, isolation and identity, to name but a few. Students will be exposed to new types of texts that they have yet to encounter, such as contemporary Canadian fiction, plastic theatre and supports them in developing their critical voices.

Curriculum Intent

Assessment and Homework

Students are set regular homework which aims to support the learning taking place in school. This homework includes but is not limited to: reading, spellings, new vocabulary, knowledge recall, pre-reading and extended writing opportunities.

Formative assessment opportunities are built into each lesson in our curriculum with students receiving regular feedback on their reading, writing and spoken language skills from their teachers. Assessment includes knowledge recall, assessment of extended writing

Raising Readers

Each KS3 class has one dedicated library lesson per fortnight where teachers and students continue to develop their passion for reading. We have a highly targeted support programme in place for students who have gaps in reading, writing and communication. This includes small group intervention using a combination of the Soundwrite phonic programme, Lexia and Accelerated Reader. We also offer lunchtime reading support groups and extra-curricular activities such as Spelling Bee, The North East Book Awards and The National Teen Book Club. In KS4 and KS5, we regularly embed opportunities for students to continue to develop their reading, writing and communication skills. All students in school have dedicated reading time built into the school day.

Year 7	Cycle 1 Exploring Characters	Cycle 2 Shakespeare, love and conflict	Cycle 3 Relationship Poetry
	Main Text: The Prince of Mist Zafon Students are introduced to key conventions of Gothic texts. Through close examination of classic literary characters, students develop their own creative skills in order to create their own character descriptions. Students consider the way authors use language to create effects. We introduce additional reading skills to those embedded in KS2 by considering how to effectively analyse the language and structure of texts.	Main Text: Romeo and Juliet Shakespeare Key Elizabethan context is introduced through the close study of one of Shakespeare's most popular tragedies. Students develop their writing skills primarily focussing on article writing. Through analysis of Shakespeare's work and a range of articles, students begin to connect context to authorial intent and their own ideas about texts.	Main Text: Selected poems Students study a range of poetry exploring different relationships from a range of time periods, cultures and perspectives. Writing skills focus on the art of letter writing.
Year 8	Cycle 1 Leadership and Revolution	Cycle 2 Morality and Social Responsibility	Cycle 3 Travellers' Tales
	Main Text: Animal Farm Orwell Through critical study of Orwell's classic text, students consider different leadership qualities and the significance of allegory. Writing will focus on rhetoric with students examining a range of speeches from different leaders in order to produce their own persuasive speeches. Students are also given the opportunity to perform their speeches through a spoken language focus in this cycle.	Main Text: All My Sons Miller Morality and responsibility are the main themes students consider when studying this modern play. As well as considering the way the play is staged, students will analyse the way characters are brought to life in productions. Students will also look at poems exploring war and the consequences of our actions.	Main Text: Selected travel Writing This cycle aims to reflect the diverse nature of our local and wider community allowing our students to hear different perspectives and voices through the mode of travel writing. Our main writing aim throughout the module is to enable students to write with a clear sense of voice, utilising features of the travel genre, whilst drawing on their knowledge of descriptive and narrative writing. The main reading aim is to develop an understanding of writer's viewpoints and perspectives, exploring how different writers may present a place similarly or differently.
Year 9	Cycle 1 Young Adult Fiction and the Modern Novel	Cycle 2 Shakespeare and Comedy	Cycle 3 Conan Doyle and 19th Century
	Main Text: Noughts and Crosses Blackman In this cycle, students explore novels from a range of different voices and perspectives in order to develop their understanding of key moments from British and American history. We specifically study key moments of black British history and the American civil rights movement. Students analyse and then consolidate their understanding of effective creative writing by producing their own narratives using a range of YA Fiction extracts as style models.	Main Text: A Midsummer Night's Dream Shakespeare Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream introduces students to the structure and conventions of Shakespeare's comedies. Through close study of this play, students explore elements of the pastoral, different presentations of love, patriarchal duty and how performance can affect an audience's reaction to plays. Students practise analysing the language, structure and dramatic devices that Shakespeare employs in order to prepare them for their Shakespeare studies at GCSE level.	Main Text: Extracts from Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes novels In order to develop students' understanding of literature from the early nineteenth century, we explore the key characters from the Sherlock Holmes series. Students will study key social factors that influenced authors as well as analysing key extracts of texts. This cycle forms the bridge for our students to GCSE Literature for in order to support them with their study of the Nineteenth Century novel. Students evaluate fiction and non-fiction texts as well as considering viewpoints and perspectives.

English Language

	Cycle 1 Introduction to English Language	Cycle 2 English Language Paper 1 and 2	Cycle 3 Spoken Language
Year 10	Students explore a range of fiction extracts in order to develop their appreciation and understanding of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How texts are crafted through different narrative styles and structures • Why authors employ different linguistic devices and how authors can manipulate a reader's response to a text • How to develop a personal response to a text • How to produce their own fiction texts 	Students explore a range of literary non-fiction extracts in order to develop their appreciation and understanding of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How authors express their viewpoints and perspectives in a text • How to compare texts based on the different presentations of activities, events or locations • How to produce their own non-fiction texts 	An essential component of AQA's English Language GCSE specification requires students to present to an audience. In this cycle, students work on their fiction and non-fiction writing as well as working towards their spoken language presentations.

English Literature

	Cycle 1 The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde- Stevenson	Cycle 2 Much Ado About Nothing- Shakespeare	Cycle 3 Power and Conflict Poetry- AQA Poetry Anthology
Year 10	Students begin their Literature studies with their 19th Century text for Literature Paper 1. We examine the context of 19th Century Britain and Stevenson's authorial intent. Students use the skills developed throughout KS3 to examine the way that Stevenson uses language and structure throughout his novel.	In Cycle 2, we focus on Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. We consider the presentation of key relationships within the play, the significance of the play's Elizabethan context and analyse the effect of Shakespeare's language and dramatic devices.	We end Year 10 studying the poems from the Power and Conflict section of AQA's Poetry Anthology.

	Cycle 1 Revision of Paper 1- Explorations of creative reading and writing	Cycle 2 Revision of Paper 2- Writers' viewpoints and perspectives	Cycle 3 Revision and External Examinations
Year 11	Students revise the skills required to effectively analyse and produce fiction texts. Through interleaved revision, our studies take on a more exam-based focus in order to prepare for the summative external assessments at the end of this year. Mock examinations focus on Paper 1.	In this cycle, we revisit the skills required to effectively analyse and produce non-fiction texts. In this cycle students will undertake mock Paper 2 examinations in order to prepare them for their external assessments.	Students complete their external examinations in this module.

	Cycle 1 Comparative and Unseen Poetry	Cycle 2 An Inspector Calls- Priestley	Cycle 3 Revision and External Examinations
Year 11	We finish studying the Power and Conflict anthology poems in this cycle and practice analysing unseen poems. We also begin to compare unseen poems in order to prepare for Paper 2: Modern Texts and Poetry. Mock examinations will focus on Poetry. We also introduce Priestley's An Inspector Calls in this cycle.	We examine the play An Inspector Calls in this cycle. Students consider the context, audience's reaction and authorial intent behind Priestley's play. This play is our modern text for Literature Paper 2. Mock examinations will focus on Much Ado and An Inspector Calls.	Students complete their external examinations in this module.
